Cold-rolled coil news

US CRC, HDG prices edge up on bullish market fundamentals

By Alesha Alkaff - Thursday 02 July

Cold-rolled coil and hot-dipped galvanized steel prices in the US rose during the assessment period ending Thursday July 2, with sources reporting robust demand and tight supply.

Fastmarkets' weekly price assessment for domestic steel cold-rolled coil, fob mill US increased to $67.50 per hundredweight ($1,350 per short ton) on Thursday, up by $0.25 per cwt, or 0.37%, from the previous assessment of $67.25 per cwt on June 25.

Inputs were collected in the range of $67.25-68.00 per cwt, representing deals and general indications of the spot market.

Prices for cold-rolled steel increased during the assessment period ending Thursday, with sources continuing to report strong demand and limited supply.

The US steel market has defied its usual seasonal sluggishness, supported by stronger-than-expected demand and pricing.

Buyers are purchasing material as needed, sources said, keeping inventory levels lean.

Fastmarkets' weekly price assessment for steel hot-dipped galvanized coil (cold-rolled base), fob mill US increased to $67.75 per hundredweight ($1,355 per short ton) on Thursday, up by $0.50 per cwt, or 0.74%, from the previous assessment of $67.25 per cwt on June 25.

Inputs were collected in the range of $66.50-72.50 per cwt, representing offers and general indications of the spot market.

Prices for hot-dipped galvanized steel rose during the assessment period ending Thursday, with sources continuing to report healthy demand and tight spot supply.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel hot-dipped galvanized coil (hot-rolled base), fob mill US increased to $66.75 per cwt on Thursday from $66.25 per cwt in the previous assessment.

Lead times for cold-rolled steel and coated steel are estimated to be around eight to ten weeks.

Import CRC, HDG unchanged

Fastmarkets' fortnightly assessment for steel cold-rolled coil, import, ddp Houston was flat at $1,090-1,120 per ton and the fortnightly assessment for steel hot-dipped galvanized 0.012 inch G30, ddp Houston was unchanged at $1,260-1,350 per ton on Wednesday.

Steel plate news

European steel heavy plate prices soften on weak demand ahead of summer holidays

By Ivelina Nikolova - Thursday 02 July

Steel heavy plate markets in both Italy and Northern Europe experienced slight downward pressure in the week to Thursday July 2 due to weak demand and slow summer market activity, sources told Fastmarkets. Italian mills faced challenges with reduced order books ahead of August closures, while Northern Europe saw a widening offer range on sluggish market conditions, according to market participants.

Italy

Deals for steel heavy plate in Italy were heard in the range of €720-745 ($820-849) per tonne ex-works on July 2, slightly lower than transactions at €720-750 per tonne ex-works from a week earlier.

Offers were heard in the range of €740-750 per tonne ex-works, sources said on Thursday.

"Plate prices are under pressure, especially in Italy, because they [mills] close in August and don't have full order books for the next 5-6 weeks," a trade source said, adding that mills were willing to reduce their selling prices because of this.

One producer said that they were not seeing an immediate impact on plate prices after the new EU steel import quotas were announced on Tuesday June 30 and that no further effect was expected. "As long as there are still unsold volumes of August in Europe, liquidity will take precedence over prices," the source said on Thursday.

The same producer added that once some of the buyers assess their potential missing volumes due to inability to custom clear material in the third quarter of the year from single origins, there will be an evolving picture.

Fastmarkets' weekly price assessment for steel domestic plate 8-40mm, exw Southern Europe was €720-745 per tonne on Thursday, with the upper end decreasing by €5 per tonne from €720-750 per tonne a week earlier.

Northern Europe

In Northern Europe, wider offer range was reported for plate material in Germany, but market conditions remained mostly unchanged, with weak demand and limited buying activity weighing on sentiment.

Sources indicated plate prices from Danish mills at €800 per tonne delivered (€785 per tonne ex-works), while much higher offers were heard from German mills at €830-880 per tonne ex-works.

This compares with an offer range of €780-850 per tonne ex-works reported on June 25. The wider range did not reflect a significant change in market fundamentals, but rather higher offers from a supplier that does not typically trade in the spot market, according to sources.

No significant transactions were heard during the week. Slow trading activity in the market had been largely linked to shrinking demand and insufficient slab feedstock availability for plate production.

Fastmarkets' weekly price assessment for steel domestic plate 8-40mm, exw Northern Europe was €785-840 per tonne on Thursday, narrowing from €780-850 a week earlier.

Italian steel slab import prices soften on new EU quota regime, lower offers from Asia

By Ivelina Nikolova - Thursday 02 July

Prices for imports of steel slab into Italy softened in the week to Thursday July 2, partly driven by the new EU steel import quota regime, announced on June 30, as well as falling slab demand in Asia, which pushed suppliers' offer prices lower in export markets, trade sources told Fastmarkets.

Slab offers and indications in Italy were reported in the range of $580-600 per tonne CIF for Asian material, down from offers at $585-610 per tonne CIF heard a week earlier.

On June 25, the lowest offers at $585-600 per tonne CIF were linked to slab from Indonesia and Vietnam, market sources said.

Fastmarkets' weekly price assessment for steel slab, import, cif Italy, was $580-600 per tonne on Thursday, down from $585-610 per tonne a week earlier.

Some market participants said that they were expecting more clarity about new offers to come in the second week of July, and could not confirm current market levels.

"[The market for] slab is still static, but we are confident [that we will] see more offers and softer prices based on quota changes and the need to fill production among some affected countries," a buyer said on July 2.

Slab was not covered by the new regulation, but reduced flat steel imports into the EU could affect trade in semi-finished products, Fastmarkets understands.

But a trade source said on the same day that he could not fully agree with import quotas being the main driver of declining slab prices.

"The prices of slab in offers [worldwide] have been decreasing for the past 7-10 days, mainly following the Chinese and Asian [hot-rolled coil] price decrease, because demand in many countries is weak," the source said.

The source added that tighter EU import rules would play a role, but that the current slab price decrease started before June 30, when the European Commission announced new quotas changes under the updated EU steel safeguard measures.

Buyers in Southeast Asia remain mostly inactive, according to market sources, because they anticipate further increases in freight costs despite the continued stabilization of crude oil prices and the return of Iranian supply to the market.

Market sources said some buyers continued to indicate buying interest around $470 per tonne CFR Southeast Asia, although there were no firm bids heard.

"This always happen in a price downtrend, when fundamentals are bearish and buyers want to wait it out for lower prices," a trader source in Singapore told Fastmarkets.

A major Indonesian blast furnace-based producer was heard to have reduced its offer price by $5 per tonne to $470 per tonne FOB for billet with September laycan on Wednesday.

The beginning of the typhoon season in China has led to a decline in demand within the downstream long steel markets, particularly in the country's primary steel consumption hub. This trend has similarly influenced market sentiment across Asia.

Fastmarkets' price assessment for steel billet import, cfr Manila was $485 per tonne on Thursday, narrowing downward by $5 per tonne from Tuesday.

Fastmarkets' price assessment for steel billet import, cfr Indonesia was $480-485 per tonne on Thursday, unchanged from Tuesday.

US rig count rises, while Canada falls back: Baker Hughes

By Fastmarkets team - Thursday 02 July

The US rig count increased by seven to 580 rigs during the latest reporting week, while Canada's rig count fell by seven to 190 rigs, according to the latest data from Baker Hughes on Thursday July 2.

The North American rig count was stable week on week at 770 rigs, up by 80 from 690 rigs a year earlier. The US count was up by 41 from 539 rigs a year earlier, while Canada's count was up by 39 from 151 rigs a year earlier.

Of the 580 rigs in the US, 445 were for oil production, up by five week on week and by 20 year on year. The number of gas rigs increased by one to 126, up by 18 from a year earlier. The remaining nine rigs were labelled miscellaneous, up by one week on week and by three year on year.

In Canada, the number of oil rigs fell by seven to 130 but was up by 28 from a year earlier. The number of gas rigs was stable week on week at 58, up by nine year on year. The remaining two rigs were labelled miscellaneous, stable week on week and up by two year on year.

Among major state variances, Texas rigs increased by three to 271 rigs.

Among major basin variances, Permian rigs increased by three to 261 rigs.

Fastmarkets assessed steel ERW line pipe (X52), fob mill US at $1,650-1,800 per short ton on June 10, rising by 6.15% from $1,550-1,700 per ton a month earlier.

And steel OCTG API 5CT - Casing J55, fob mill US was assessed at $1,600-1,750 per short ton on the same day, rising by 9.84% from $1,450-1,600 per ton in May.

The rig count has been provided by Baker Hughes since 1975.
