Policy support reshapes demand outlook

The recent policy shift under Mexico’s broader industrial strategy has become a key driver for sentiment.

Under the agreement, the government pledged to prioritize domestic steel procurement for infrastructure projects, alongside financing mechanisms and commitments from producers to ensure supply and competitive pricing.

Market participants said the measure could significantly reduce reliance on imports in public works and provide greater visibility for domestic producers.

“In past years, the government has imported a lot of rebar and other products to complete projects,” a producer source previously told

Fastmarkets, highlighting the structural shift implied by the new policy.

The policy is part of a broader push to strengthen Mexico’s industrial base, with the steel sector positioned as a key beneficiary through increased infrastructure spending and localization of supply chains.

Sources said the combination of policy support, infrastructure activity and mill discipline is currently sustaining upward price momentum.

At the same time, participants are monitoring whether demand will remain strong enough to support further increases, particularly as prices approach higher thresholds.

For now, the market appears to be transitioning into a more active phase, with improved buying interest and clearer demand signals underpinning recent gains.

Hot-rolled coil news

US Midwest HRC mills continue to raise offering prices

By Chris Kavanagh - Monday 04 May

Hot-rolled coil prices in the US Midwest hovered below $1,060 per short ton on Monday May 4 as mills continued to raise offering levels due to long lead times and healthy demand levels.

Fastmarkets’ daily steel hot-rolled coil index, fob mill US Midwest was calculated at $52.76 per hundredweight ($1,055.20 per ton) on Monday, down by $0.38 per cwt, or 0.72%, from $53.14 per cwt on Friday May 1 and down by $0.25 per cwt, or 0.47%, from $53.01 per cwt a week earlier on April 27.

Inputs were collected in both the buyer and seller sub-indices in a range of $52.50-53.50 per cwt, representing deals, offers and general assessments of the market.

Heard in the market

Steelmaker Nucor has elevated its consumer spot price for hot-rolled products for a 16th consecutive week, establishing a base price of $53.50 per cwt ($1,070 per ton) for the remainder of this week, up by $0.25 per cwt from $53.25 per cwt the week prior.

Hot band prices continued to be propped up by tight spot availability and solid demand, sources said.

Mills have reported lead times out into July, while buyers have expressed difficulty in their efforts to acquire prompt spot tonnage, sources said.

Moreover, market participants credited recent demand health to increased market certainty, as buyers have bought into the ongoing price run.

Quote of the day

“With current demand, I don’t see any reason for price retraction. Hats off to the mills for a slow and steady increase rather than their typical rapid increase,” a service center source said.

Rebar news

CMC raises rebar prices by $30 per ton at select mills

By Melissa VanDervort - Monday 04 May

US steelmaker Commercial Metals Company (CMC) announced an increase of $30 per short ton ($1.50 per hundredweight) on all reinforcing bar products from multiple mills in a letter to customers on Friday May 1, Fastmarkets has learned.

"Effective May 1, 2026, we are increasing the transactional price for reinforcing steel products from our North America Reinforcing Steel Mills in Seguin, Texas, Durant, Oklahoma, Knoxville, Tennessee, Jacksonville, Florida, Cayce, South Carolina and Sayreville, New Jersey by $30 [per] ton," the customer letter stated.

The letter also indicated that there would be an additional increase of $20 per ton ($1.00 per cwt) on all spooled and coiled products from mills in Durant, Oklahoma and Jacksonville, Florida.

The CMC letter said that all confirmed orders placed by the end of business on May 1 will be price protected if shipped by May 15.

CMC last raised rebar prices for their two Western US mills by $50 per ton ($2.50 per cwt) on April 20.

US domestic rebar prices remained stable on Wednesday April 29, with some sources noting a slight uptick in demand after a slow start to the spring construction season.

Fastmarkets last assessed the price of steel reinforcing bar (rebar), fob mill US at $46 per cwt ($920 per ton) on Wednesday, steady since falling by 2.13%, or $1 per cwt, from $47 per cwt on April 1.
