Steel plate news

US domestic plate prices steady in quiet market

By Melissa VanDervort - Tuesday 13 May

Plate prices in the US were stable on Tuesday May 13, with sources reporting tepid demand in a stagnant market plagued by ongoing buyer uncertainty.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $57 per hundredweight ($1,140 per short ton) on Tuesday, flat from May 6 and down by 1.72% from $58 per cwt on April 29.

Inputs were collected in a range of $55-59 per cwt, representing deals, offers and assessments of the general spot market.

The domestic plate market has been muted, with slow-to-fair demand, sources told Fastmarkets.

"[It is] very quiet on the plate side," a Midwest distributor source said.

Sources expect sluggish demand to continue throughout the summer, with cautious buyers only purchasing as needed amid uncertainty over near-term market trajectory.

A second distributor said that he expects the domestic plate market to rebound in the fall and into next year, after a tepid summer season.

"Demand is on the softer side — [it is] not dead, but could be better," the second distributor said. "[It] will get better after the summer months and then [it] should be pretty good in 2026."

Lead times are at four to five weeks, according to sources.
