Ukraine's Zaporizhstal, AMKR hit by fresh Russian missile strikes

By Himanshi Chaudhary - Tuesday 15 September

Ukraine's Zaporizhstal and ArcelorMittal Kryvyi Rih (AMKR) steel plants were hit by Russian missile strikes on September 12, injuring six people and killing one employee of a contracting organization, according to statements from the companies.

Four ballistic missiles struck Zaporizhstal, a pig iron and flat steel supplier partly owned by Metinvest in Zaporizhzhia, causing critical damage to the plant and injuring four employees, according to the company.

The attack was the third ballistic missile strike on the plant in a month, following earlier attacks on August 11 and August 27. Zaporizhstal had not resumed production following the earlier strikes.

The latest attack damaged main and auxiliary equipment in the blast furnace and open-hearth shops, internal electrical grids and power supply systems, as well as logistics infrastructure, according to Metinvest.

"Zaporizhstal produced pig iron and steel for civilian needs. The plant did not produce military goods and did not house anything on its territory that could make it a military target. After the strikes on Aug. 11 and Aug. 27, the enterprise had not yet resumed production, but even this did not prevent a new attack," Metinvest Chief Operating Officer Oleksandr Myronenko said.

"The scale of the destruction is growing with each strike. It is currently impossible to definitively assess them, but we preliminarily define the damage as critical," Myronenko added.

Separately, AMKR in Kryvyi Rih was also hit by a Russian missile strike overnight on September 12, injuring two employees and killing one employee of a contracting organization. AMKR is a pig iron and long steel supplier.

"The attack has damaged production and support facilities. Relevant experts are currently assessing the extent of the damage and the possibilities and timing of restoration," the company statement said.

In earlier attacks on AMKR, two employees were killed and key production assets in the power generation and blast furnace operations were damaged.

Both Zaporizhstal and AMKR have emphasized that they are civilian mining and metallurgical enterprises.

The latest attacks add to ongoing disruption for Ukraine's steel industry, amid attacks on Black Sea port infrastructure and civilian fleets.

Steel plate news

US domestic plate prices remain steady on continued demand strength

By Melissa VanDervort - Tuesday 15 September

US steel plate prices were unchanged on Tuesday September 15, with market participants noting that demand continues to outpace available plate supply, compounded by low buyer inventory levels and maintenance shutdowns in the domestic market.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $74 per hundredweight ($1,480 per short ton) on Tuesday September 15, unchanged since rising by 1.37%, or $1.00 per cwt, on August 18 from $73 per cwt on August 11.

Inputs were collected in a range of $67.50-75.00 per cwt, representing offers and indications of the general spot market.

Demand for domestic plate remains robust toward the end of the third quarter, a trend that is expected to continue through the balance of the year and into 2027, sources told Fastmarkets.

"Demand remains strong, and if you have [plate to sell], you can almost name your price. This looks to remain for some time," a distributor said. "[It is] good time to be in the plate business."

Market participants said that many plate mills have closed their order books for the remainder of 2026 and most are not currently offering spot tons, further restricting domestic supply.

"I have spoken with the mill representatives and they all are saying the same thing—demand is strong, mills are reducing contract tons to the lower ranges and virtually no spot tons [are] available," a buyer said. "Some steel mills continue to experience production hiccups in addition to planned maintenance outages. This trend is expected [to continue] through the remainder of this year."

This environment has fostered a seller's market, with some buyers willing to pay higher prices to meet strong demand amid tight supply and low stock levels, sources said.

"Most mills have closed their [order] books for most of the rest of the year. [If you] add in the imminent mill shutdowns and low-end user [and] service center inventories, and there aren't many options beyond paying what you need to for projects you have due," a second buyer said. "Demand for the limited tons available is very strong. If you have a supplier that can get you tons, buy them now, because it is very likely supply will be increasingly tight over the next few months."

A second distributor echoed a similar sentiment, saying, "There is money to be made and now is the time to make money. In-stock steel now is like lobster—it's expensive because it's worth it."

Lead times were reported in a wide range from eight to twelve weeks.

Turkish deep-sea scrap indices rise on renewed mill buying

By Cem Turken - Tuesday 15 September

Turkish deep-sea scrap import prices increased sharply on Tuesday September 15, supported by renewed mill buying and robust domestic long steel sales, while a fresh US-origin cargo of heavy melting scrap (HMS) 1&2 (85:15) was booked at $400 per tonne CFR.

Fastmarkets' daily index for steel scrap, HMS 1&2 (80:20) mix, North Europe origin, cfr Turkey, rose by $5.82 per tonne to $390.75 per tonne on Tuesday, from $384.93 per tonne on Monday September 14.

The daily index for steel scrap, HMS 1&2 (80:20) mix, US origin, cfr Turkey, also increased by $5.82 per tonne, to $395.47 per tonne from $389.65 per tonne over the same period.

The premium for US-origin material over Northern European scrap therefore remained unchanged at $4.72 per tonne on Tuesday.

The increase followed the confirmation of a US-origin cargo booked by a steelmaker in the Izmir region. The transaction comprised HMS 1&2 (85:15) at $400 per tonne CFR, with shredded scrap and bonus-grade material both at $417.50 per tonne CFR.

laycan.

"The steelmaker is facing production problems due to the drought in Indonesia, and are not actively offering cargoes. So they have increased offers and pushed their loading laycans to a later month," a trader source in Indonesia told Fastmarkets.

Chinese sellers were offering base-grade billets at $460 per tonne FOB.

"Given the rising crude oil and bunker costs, freight costs are at least $18-20 per tonne," a trader source in Singapore told Fastmarkets, estimating that 3/4sp-grade billet prices would be around $480 per tonne CFR Southeast Asia.

Fastmarkets' twice-weekly price assessment for steel billet import, cfr Manila, was $490-492 per tonne on Tuesday, down by $3 per tonne from last Thursday.

The corresponding twice-weekly price assessment for steel billet import, cfr Indonesia, was $485-490 per tonne on Tuesday, falling by $5 per tonne from last Thursday.
