Imposition of the duties followed an investigation started in September 2025, which found that cold-rolled flat steel products from these origins were entering the EU at dumped prices.

This probe is the first in which the Commission has established the existence of Particular Market Situations in some of the markets investigated, the Commission said.

"As such, the Commission considers this investigation to be of systemic importance for trade defence, beyond the products and industry sectors it concerns. This investigation demonstrates the Commission's ability to develop credible, evidence-based and innovative solutions to address evolving trade-distorting practices," it added.

A Particular Market Situation arises when conditions in an exporting country's domestic market prevent a fair comparison between domestic and export prices. Under EU anti-dumping rules, the Commission may calculate a constructed normal value rather than rely on domestic sales prices when such market distortions are established, subject to applicable legal provisions.

In this investigation, the Commission established Particular Market Situations in India and Taiwan. In India, government measures were found to have influenced domestic iron ore prices, affecting a key raw material used in cold-rolled flat steel production. In Taiwan, excess steelmaking capacity in China led to increased imports of Chinese cold-rolled flat steel, putting downward pressure on domestic prices and weakening the profitability of Taiwanese producers. The Commission subsequently introduced corrective measures to address these distortions.

The EU imported 1.7 million tonnes of CRC in the first nine months of 2026, according to Global Trade Tracker data. That was down by 13.26% from 1.96 million tonnes in the same period of 2025. The EU imported 2.9 million tonnes of CRC in full-year 2025.

The Commission announced preliminary duties in August this year.

Nevertheless, market sources said buying activity had been cautious well before that.

The introduction of a new safeguard system in July 2026, and of the Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism (CBAM) since the beginning of the year, also had an effect.

Market sources expect the official imposition of the anti-dumping duties to result in "further tightening of CRC supply from abroad".

Steel plate news

Weekly US raw steel production

By Fastmarkets team - Monday 16 November

Fastmarkets tracks raw steel production by US mills for the week ended November 14, 2026.

Nucor raises steel plate prices by $70 per short ton

By Melissa VanDervort - Monday 16 November

US steelmaker Nucor raised plate prices by $70 per short ton ($3.50 per hundredweight) in a letter to customers late on Friday November 13, Fastmarkets has learned.

The price increase applies to all plate products for December production, according to the letter.

"All orders must be submitted by November 27 to be considered for the December order book," the letter stated.

Nucor last raised plate prices by $60 per short ton ($3 per hundredweight (cwt)) on October 1.

US plate prices were steady on Tuesday November 10, with sources citing strong demand fundamentals and ongoing supply constraints as consistent support for the domestic market.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $80 per cwt ($1,600 per short ton) on Tuesday November 10, steady week on week after rising by 2.56% from $78 per cwt on October 20.
