China's HRC prices stable on good end-user demand

By Jessica Zong - Tuesday 20 May

China's domestic prices for hot-rolled coil were unchanged day on day on Tuesday May 20 amid good end-user demand and the country's central bank lowering its loan prime rate (LPR), sources told Fastmarkets.

Domestic

Fastmarkets' price assessment for steel hot-rolled coil domestic, ex-whs Eastern China was 3,260-3,280 yuan ($452-455) per tonne on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday May 19.

End-user demand for HRC has remained robust in recent weeks and was reportedly stable on Tuesday, underpinning HRC prices, sources said.

Additionally, China's central bank, the People's Bank of China (PBOC) decreased its one-year LPR by 10 basis points to 3.0% on Tuesday from the previous 3.1%, a move industry analysts say will lower financing costs for businesses, potentially boosting economic activity.

The lower LPR underpinned HRC futures prices and kept domestic spot values for the product stable, sources said.

Export

Fastmarkets calculated its steel hot-rolled coil index export, fob main port China at $457 per tonne on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

Small, privately-owned mills offered HRC export offers at $455-460 per tonne FOB China for 3.0-3.5 mm thick, 1,250-1,500 mm wide SS400/Q235-grade HRC on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

Market participants expected the workable prices were around $455 per tonne FOB for small mills.

Large, state-owned mills offered the product at $465-480 per tonne FOB on Tuesday, compared with $465-495 per tonne FOB last week. Market participants estimated the large mills' workable prices were at $465-470 per tonne FOB.

Foreign buyers bid at significantly lower prices to secure profits, but most steel mills were not willing to offer substantial discounts.

Chinese steel mills currently have ample export orders and are not overly pessimistic about China's domestic HRC prices, an exporter said.

Green steel

Fastmarkets' assessment for flat steel reduced carbon emissions, daily inferred, exw China was 3,260-3,830 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

This was assessed based on Fastmarkets' fortnightly price assessment of flat steel reduced carbon emissions differential, exw China, which calculates the premium for flat-rolled reduced carbon emissions steel over products produced from the traditional blast furnace-based route and came in at 0-550 yuan per tonne on Friday May 9.

Market chatter

"The outlook for HRC demand in China's domestic market remains negative, putting downward pressure on HRC prices. Consequently, only end users are purchasing cargoes, while trade houses remain inactive in building inventories," a trader based in Shanghai said.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded October HRC futures contract on the Shanghai Futures Exchange closed at 3,202 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, down by 5 yuan per tonne from Monday's closing price of 3,207 yuan per tonne.

Steel plate news

US domestic plate prices decline amid weak demand

By Melissa VanDervort - Tuesday 20 May

US plate prices declined on Tuesday May 20 amid a muted market, characterized by weak demand and cautious buying behavior, sources said.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $56 per hundredweight ($1,120 per short ton) on Tuesday, down by 1.75% from $57 per cwt on May 13.

Inputs were collected in a range of $55-56 per cwt, representing deals, offers and general assessments of the spot market.

The domestic plate market is quiet, with somewhat tepid demand, sources said.

"It appears that the [plate] steel market continues to trend downward," a buyer source said.

Market participants anticipate that muted demand will persist into the seasonally slower summer months, with buyers continuing to take a cautious approach to spot purchases amid lingering economic uncertainty.

"[The] plate mills [are] desperately trying to bridge the gap through the summer months and [the mills] need orders," a distributor source said.

A second distributor source said that there were rumors of a possible mill plate price reduction in the near term.

"I heard there was going to be a $2.00 [plate price] decrease [in the near future], but I doubt we'll see a [price] decrease," the second distributor said. "[There's] no need for [a price cut] at this time."

Lead times are at four to five weeks, sources said.
